1 ENLIGHTENMENT STRUCTURE

The structure above is a small representation of all the stages involved and thus one can measure the level they are in and track the path they are traversing in. Any stage is achievable but each stage has its own requirement, each stage cannot be bypassed for a higher stage. To proceed to the next level you must have a great understanding of your current level which will automatically create a path to the next level. It is until you master the current stage then you can proceed to the next.

Below we shall see what each stage requires.

1.1 BEFORE ENLIGHTENMENT

In this stage most of the people see things to be normal and tend not to challenge them, this stage can last until one starts to question things they see, the step you make by starting to question this is usually the basic door to the beginning of enlightenment. You can only start making changes by appreciating this stage, to discover certain things around you it involves great understanding of them. The greatest discovery is when a person masters the power of sound waves, it is out of sound waves most things behave as they behave. To appreciate the full power of sound waves one must start questioning! This is what will lead you to the second stage of enlightenment.

1.2 CHOICE OF ENLIGHTENMENT

The most complex stage in human life is this stage, this is because one has to choose, between two true or false enlightenment. When the true path is chosen one will be required to master all the bits of this path this stage one acquires knowledge and becomes wise where wisdom in this stage turns to be power in the third stage. One also has to practise all the ways and perfect the art, in this stage one does too much and is normally the changing of identity stage, you cannot proceed to the third stage without a transformation of your identity, you must become a master of this stage to succeed in stage 3. This stage is complex in the aspect of changing identity and reshaping oneself from scratch so as to get ready to the third stage. All the skills and power is molded in this stage, most people never get passed this stage due to lack of mastery in it. The wisdom to learn how to control anything is obtained in this stage. In this stage you must be selfless and also must learn the art of understanding anything.

1.3 CONTROL STAGE

In this stage you will be able to control anything and will have power over anything, this is one of the most powerful stage which at all times should be used for good and not evil, here anything you see you easily understand beyond normal capabilities, this is the most fruitful stage any human can reach, in this stage you can unleash great discoveries and do great works beyond normal capabilities, in this stage one is required to have a clear mind and heart which by default it is easily achievable. In this stage most people will not understand you and will often find it difficult describing you.

1.4 UNKNOWN STAGE

This is the highest stage that no man can reach, this stage one can only access it by stage 3, but cannot reach that stage, stage 3 offers a low level access to it's stage and stage 4. This stage is not directly accessible by any means and remains hidden to human, no one can know anything about this stage it is beyond enlightenment. The best one can do is appreciate this stage.
